

RJ Cooper – 2007 RoadTrip to Kentucky

RJ's RoadTrips in our area:

Aug. 29, 2007 - Caveland Educational Support Center (CESC), Bowling Green, KY;
contact Paula Borland

Aug. 30, 2007 – Wilderness Trail Special Education Cooperative, Liberty, KY;
contact Paula Borland

Aug. 31, 2007 – West Kentucky Educational Cooperative, Murray, KY;
contact Paula Borland

Mr. Cooper has lectured at over 1000 facilities, on 3 continents. His expertise ranges from severe/profound to mild MR and LD. RJ has worked with, literally, thousands of people, from infants to adults. His audiences have ranged from five to five hundred in attendance. RJ's workshops and presentations take a very unique approach. You arrange 1 learner per half-hour, and RJ will try to change that person's life, right there in front of your attendees. All that is needed is a short paragraph, in advance, explaining a bit about that learner and caregiver goals, and RJ will attempt to make the connection.

RJ's goal: to have the learner do something new and exciting that he/she has not done before. This may be increasing attending and time-on-task significantly. Maybe it will be using a switch in a completely new position that no one has thought of before. Or it could be a breakthrough to using pictures as communication tools. You can be sure some 'magic' will be in the air, as RJ has had 18 years of experience in making breakthroughs, with great success.

Further information about RJ Cooper: <http://rjcooper.com/index.html>