

Top Ten Reasons to Buy at Consignment or Second-Hand Stores

Number 10 Recycling

You are able to wear the clothes you like until they get old or you are ready for something different. You can drop off your used clothes for consignment sale or as a donation to the second-hand shop.

Number 9 Selection

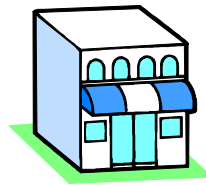

The variety of clothing you can find in a consignment shop or second-hand store far exceeds that of any traditional retail store.

Number 8 Self-Expression

You are able to be creative and find a look that suits your individual personality. Because of the great selection of different types and styles of clothing, you can try putting several items together that you might not ever find in the same retail store.

Number 7 Convenience

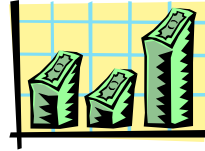

Consignment shops or second-hand stores are usually located near residential areas in small shopping centers or even homes.

Number 6 Service

Most consignment or second-hand shops provide a warm, friendly atmosphere. If you are looking for something in particular, you will usually find someone ready and willing to assist you.

Number 5 Value

Shopping in consignment or second-hand stores provides a greater price-to-product ratio---You get more clothes for less money!!

Number 4 Low Prices

Most consignment or second-hand stores have low prices on their products. Just as with any other store, you will find items on sale. Many stores reduce the price of their items each month.

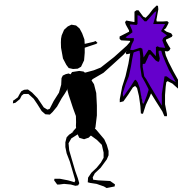

Number 3 Brand names

Shopping at consignment and second-hand stores you will find many name brand items for re-sale.

Number 2 New merchandise arrives daily

Many second-hand stores receive donations on a daily basis. That means the selection changes often. If you don't find what you are looking for today, chances are, it will be there tomorrow.

Number 1 The thrill of the hunt!

Shopping at consignment and second-hand stores allows you to have fun searching for the "right outfit" and knowing when you find it you got a real deal!
