

Adaptive Schools

Developing and Facilitating Collaborative Groups

Green River Regional Educational Cooperative • 230 Technology Way • Bowling Green

During these challenging times in education, administrators and teachers are seeking new and effective ways to conduct the business of teaching and learning. There is a growing body of work supporting the power of collaborative adult professional communities in schools and the impact of those communities on student achievement. Adaptive Schools investigates the "how" of PLCs. This four-day institute explores the strategies and tools necessary to support adult conversations, as well as student conversations in the classroom. Participants will:

- Develop the skills of an excellent and credible facilitator/teacher
- Discover how to deal effectively with conflict in a community or a classroom
- Acquire the tools of an engaged and valuable group member
- Learn strategies to increase student participation and discourse in the classroom
