

Coaching Teams in a Culture of Innovation

March 23 AND April 20, 2017

8:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. (CT)

Workshop #101-17

GRREC Office & Training Facility • 230 Technology Way • Bowling Green 42101

No individual can do what WE can do together. Teams have potential to solve problems in challenging contexts. Building on the foundation of two excellent resources—Elena Aguilar’s The Art of Coaching Teams and Cristina Bianchi and Maureen Steele’s Coaching for Innovation (provided for each participant)—we will look at strategies to cultivate a culture of learning and innovation as played out in the context of effective teams in your environment.

Learning Targets:

- Identifying the dimensions of effective teams
- Developing a culture of trust and innovation (“bigger thinking”)
- Identifying organizational conditions to support your district/school improvement plan
- Identifying coaching skills, tools and models that you can use to generate creativity and innovation

Bill Owen is a certified Cognitive Coach employed by the Green River Regional Educational Cooperative as part of the Race to the Top innovation grant focused on personalized learning. His strengths include coaching, consulting, and leadership development resulting in the development of vision and strategic processes, staff and team building.

AUDIENCE: Administrators in all corners of our educational system: superintendents, principals, instructional coaches, learning community facilitators, grade/department level leads, committee leads and anyone else in formal or informal leadership positions
We strongly encourage participation of a district or school team!
