

PGES: Domain 4, Self-Reflection, and Professional Growth Planning (This day is a repeat of PGES training at GRREC on May 22, 2014.)

This training will provide all resources needed for administrators and/or teacher leaders to engage teachers in a professional learning opportunity for Domain 4, self-reflections, and professional growth planning.

for District Leaders, Administrators, and/or Teacher Leaders
Monday, June 23, 2014
Workshop #134-14

GRREC is pleased to offer training to familiarize participants with PGES: Domain 4 of the Framework for Teaching. District and school leaders will be able to use this training to guide their teachers to complete their Self-Reflection, design a Professional Growth Goal and Action Plan, and submit to CIITS.

The goal of self-reflection is to improve teaching and learning through ongoing thinking on how professional practices impact student and teacher learning. The goal of a professional growth plan is to facilitate the translation of growth needs identified through self-reflection and other processes into practical activities and experiences that are of value to teachers in strengthening their competencies in the identified growth need areas. Together, self-reflection and professional growth planning provide critical information in determining the overall effectiveness of the teacher.

Camille Dillingham and Sheila Thompson, GRREC Leadership Consultants, will provide this training for district and school leaders to take back to teachers in their districts.
